What is claimed is:

1.   A method for handling lost packet errors in a communication system, the method comprising:

receiving a transmission that, if correctly transmitted and received, would contain data packets and redundant packets;

if packets of the transmission have been lost, performing erasure correction using the received packets, and if there is still at least one lost data packet that was not successfully recovered, requesting retransmission of the at least one lost data packet.